Tony Evers’ public health emergency and face covering order. The Wisconsin Institute for Law and Liberty, in a move supported by the Republican legislative leadership, asked that the court stop Executive Order (EO) #90 from Democratic Gov. Evers. The EO directs the state’s Department of Health Services to take steps to address the coronavirus. The EO issued by the Governor took effect on Sept. 22 and is scheduled to last for 60 days. Gov. Evers issued a press release supporting the court decision. ○ Gov. Tony Evers announced in a press release that he has directed the Wisconsin Department of Health Services to issue an Emergency Order #3 that limits public gatherings in the state to no more than 25% of a room or the building’s total occupancy. The order goes into effect on Oct. 8 and goes through Nov. 6. Public gatherings are defined as rooms within a business location, store or facility that allow members of the public to enter and ticketed events. Those gatherings not open to the public and therefore not subject to this order include office spaces, invitation-only events, private residences and more. Other exceptions and more specifics about the order may be found on a Frequently Asked Questions page. The Republican-controlled legislature may decide to fight the order. ○ Gov. Tony Evers has issued Executive Order #90, declaring again a public health emergency for Wisconsin. The Governor is alarmed about the rising rates of coronavirus in the state, especially on college campuses. The Executive Order designates the Wisconsin Department of Health Services as the lead agency to oversee the public health emergency efforts and authorizes the Adjutant General to activate the Wisconsin National Guard as necessary to assist in the response, including providing personnel to support the Nov. 3 general election and to operate community testing sites. ○ Effective July 2, Public Health Madison and Dane County in Wisconsin issued Emergency Order #7 to limit gatherings and prohibit indoor dining and service at bars. Indoor gatherings are limited to 10 individuals or fewer, not including employees and outdoor gatherings are capped at 25 or fewer. Indoor dining capacity at restaurants is reduced to 25% capacity and bars are only allowed to provide outdoor dining (with physical distancing) or takeout. More information can also be found in their press release. ○ The Republican legislators who control the Wisconsin Senate and Assembly have asked the state’s Supreme Court for an injunction to prevent the most recent Safer at Home Emergency Order #28 issued by the WI Health Services Secretary Andrea Palm.
